„A new chapter opens in Czech-Saudi relations after previous years during which the Czech president negatively commented on Islam and. Riyadh responding by limiting mutual trade relations. A visit of the President of the Czech Chamber of Deputies Radek Vondracek to Saudi Arabia is considered by both parties as a restart. The world’s oil superpower has launched an ambitious modernization plan and for many Czech companies Saudi is becoming more attractive, albeit a very demanding destination. The solemn reception of the Czech Deputy by the Chief of the Royal Advisory Corps of the Saudi Parliament symbolizes the return to normal relations. Following talks at the Riyadh Ministry of Foreign Affairs could lead in opening new business activities. H. E. Radek Vondracek says: “Of course, they are interested in the current political attitudes of the Czech Republic in a broader context, the conclusion was positive, meaning restart.” Last year, the Czech trade with the Kingdom climbed to 17 billion crowns, mainly thanks to Czech cars, measuring equipment, steel and of course Saudi oil. It is very difficult to establish business with the 33 million, conservative and Islamic country. Traditionally, the Czechs have been successful in the field of health care, just like here in the prestigious King Faisal Hospital. Zuzana Babilonova (job procurement) says: “Currently there are approx. 500 Czech and Slovak healthcare professionals in the Arabian Peninsula.” After a dynastic change three years ago, the Saudi Arabia issued an unexpectedly profound reform. The Crown Prince introduced his 2030 Vision. It seeks to implement e-government, education development, foreign investment and empowerment of women. In this June female drivers first appeared on Saudi streets. In the Royal Advisory Council there are 30 women out of 150 members. The Tower of the Kingdom is one of the two largest buildings in Saudi Arabia and a symbol of oil wealth and a symbol of modernization. The most important part of the vision is reduction in oil dependency. The non-oil export should rise from 16 to full 50%. Saudi Arabia is in a number of points inspired in the United Arab Emirates, without wanting to threaten its conservative religious character.etc.
